

Dylan's ENG121J Notes

Week 1	2
Lecture 1: Intros (September 04, 2024) . . . . .	2
Lecture 2: Limon Reading (September 06, 2024) . . . . .	2
Week 2	2
Lecture 3: (September 11, 2024) . . . . .	2

Week 1

Lecture 1:Intros*

Literally just syllabus overview and discussion regarding the subject matter of the class. Not much to note or take of any importance.

Assignment, readings by Elizabeth Alexander, Richard Blanco, and Amanda German. Read the following poems

- Elizabeth Alexander, "Praise Song for the Day"
- Richard Blanco, "One Day"
- Amanda Gorman, "The Hill We Climb"

These are on the lyceum page.

---

Lecture 2:LimonReading*

First written assignment. Three paragraph essay about a 1.25 pages double spaced No introduction or conclusion, all just straight forwards points. When formatting quotes, you have to include a \. "This goes \ across the line" Class was mostly discussion, not very much to note which is unfortunate.

---

Week 2

Lecture 3:

I must annotate "The Vulture and the Body"
There's nothing to take notes on in this class.